Jetfly is a fractional ownership private aviation company using the super versatile, Phillipe Starcke designed Pilatus PC-12 which is able to fly at high altitudes and land at both large international airports and access smaller airfields. This means you can choose airports closer to your final destination, for instance, Courchevel in The Alps and La Mole - St Tropez.

Jetfly approached Couture Editions to produce a series of prints based on the Pilatus PC-12 which have been used not only in their global headquarters in Luxembourg but travel with them to luxury events across the world where they promote their services to the purveyors of luxury travel.
